

Transcript – CPSQ for teachers

Gain insights that will help your teachers to thrive.

A teacher's values, attitudes, and behaviors play an important role in how they approach their work and interact with learners.

CPSQ is a psychometric assessment, which gives you fast, in-depth, and objective insight. It helps you support your teachers' personal and professional development.

Taken online by a desktop, mobile, or tablet, whenever or wherever you want. It's suitable for both trainee and qualified teachers, and only takes around 30 minutes to complete.

Developed in liaison with educational institutions, CPSQ gives insight into seven competency areas: caring and compassion, coping with demands, person-centered communication, working well with others, professional practice, self-management, and engagement with learning.

Our instant reporting provides personalised feedback, outlining a teacher's strengths, and areas for improvement.

CPSQ helps you get to know teachers or trainees more quickly. Identifying development requirements at an early stage, helping you to encourage and guide reflective practice, open up conversations using a shared language, match teachers to suitable tutors or mentors, and identify teachers at risk of leaving the profession.

CPSQ can also be used as part of teacher selection, providing insights to help you target interview questions, learn more about how you can support teacher's personal development with CPSQ.
